

THE GAME WITHOUT SALT

BYZANTIUM / HISPANIA without salt

The two scenarios are also playable without salt cities. At first the game setup remains the same (with salt city tokens). The salt cities are then exchanged with city tokens from the unused letter group:

Salt city A becomes a tool city

Salt city B becomes a wine city

Salt city C becomes a cloth city

Salt city D becomes a brick city

Forum without salt

Some forum cards bring salt into play. Nevertheless it is possible to play with the forum cards, but without the salt expansion. Therefore the word "salt" changes to "any good" and "salt city" to "any city".

Example 1: "TITUS VALERIUS" Exchange 1 good with any (other) good.

Example 2: "MARCUS" Build 1 house in any city for only 1 tool.

NOTES

Additional game material:

The 5 bonus markers (1x cloth, 1x wine, 1x food and 2x brick) and the blank city are just additional material.

The Praefectus Magnus is a robust edition of the Praefectus Magnus card. The 2 salt cities player aids complement the old player aids.

The blank forum card is for your own ideas or it can cover the stack, if that is the wish of the players.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF CONCORDIA SALSA

After the great success of the multiple award-winning Concordia, there had been requests to add some new cards to the game.

Moreover, it seemed a charming idea to give the players more flexibility with an additional wildcard resource.

Last but not least, after Italia, Britannia, and Germania, more regions under former control of the Roman Empire waited to be rewarded with a local map to play on.

The result of all these considerations now is CONCORDIA SALSA. There had been discussions about the name, but in the end it covers this expansion quite well:

First, the new commodity salt spices up the game. And second, the dance around the forum cards has become one of the most important game elements.

My special thanks go to everyone who worked as a play tester, spin doctor, or creative agent, to make CONCORDIA SALSA as special as it is:

Ralph Anderson, Claudia Barmbold, Mark Bigney, Stephan Borowski, Maja Damkovac, Peter Dörsam, Marina Fahrenbach, Jens Kùlpmann, Rùdiger Kuntze, Frank Lamprecht, Yvonne Lange, Michael Lopez, Thomas Mumm, Maïke Wagner, the playtesters from Stahleck castle, and many more who cannot all be named.

Without your help this amazing expansion would not exist!

CONCORDIA SALSA: GAME RULES

GAME MATERIAL

Game board with two scenarios: BYZANTIUM and HISPANIA

Forum tableau

1 game rulebook

12 salt

4 salt city tokens

2 salt cities player aids

27 forum cards (+1 blank)

Praefectus Magnus 5 bonus markers

SUMMARY

Concordia Salsa (Latin for "salted") spices the base game with three new elements:

1. Salt as a new good, produced in salt cities. Salt is a wildcard resource and can replace any other good.
2. The forum: 27 forum cards offer room for new strategies.
3. The game board with 2 new scenarios.

Concordia Salsa is combinable in various ways: All three elements can be used together or separately.

General and game setup:

The rulebook of the base game Concordia forms the basis for the game rules and the game setup of Concordia Salsa. The differences for the game setup are described on the back side of the forum tableau.

Specifics of the game board:

Start city for BYZANTIUM is Byzantium, Start city for HISPANIA is Saguntum.

These two start cities similarly replace "Roma" in the text of the personality cards Tribune and Colonist.

SALT AND SALT CITIES

1. Salt as a good

Salt is, like any other good, stored in the storehouse. Salt is a wildcard, which means you can exchange salt with any other good at any time. But you can never buy or sell salt for sestertii. You get salt when your salt cities produce or through some of the forum cards.

2. Building of salt cities

A salt city costs 1 tool + 1 wine + 5 sestertii (+ 5 additional sestertii for every house which is already in the city).

3. Victory points for salt cities

Salt cities count for JUPITER (temple cities) and for SATURNUS (provinces) as usual. For MINERVA (specialists) every salt city counts for exactly one type of good.

Attention: Salt cities do not count for MERCURIUS (different types of goods).

Examples

To 1.: A player plays the Tribune. They own 1 food and 1 salt, but no tool. The player exchanges the salt for 1 tool, hands the 2 goods over and places a new colonist on the game board.

To 3.: At the end of the game a player possesses 2 MINERVA cards, Vintner and Mason, and the following cities:

The Vintner yields 4 victory points for every wine city. The player therefore counts their salt cities as wine cities. They get $3 \times 4 = 12$ victory points for the Vintner and $2 \times 3 = 6$ victory points for the Mason.

FORUM CARDS + FORUM TABLEAU

Summary

The 27 forum cards divide into 13 patricians (blue) and 14 citizens (green). The blue patricians are permanent cards, which means they stay the whole game at the owner's side. Conversely, the green citizens offer a one-time advantage. After their use you must discard them.

Acquisition of forum cards

The players start the game with one patrician (see game setup on the back of the forum tableau).

When a player plays the Tribune, they can take exactly one of the 4 displayed forum cards for free. But they need a minimum number of already played personality cards (including the Tribune). The necessary number of played personality cards is shown on the forum directly under the cards.

With 10 or more played personality cards the player has the choice between all four cards. With 8 or 9 personality cards they can choose between the first three forum cards and with 6 or 7 between the first two forum cards. With 4 or 5 personality cards they can only take the first card.

Afterwards the remaining forum cards move to the left; the free place on the right is filled from the stock. If the stock is empty, the discarded forum cards are shuffled again.

Use of the forum cards

Fundamentally a player can use and combine as many forum cards in their move as they like. However the following points have to be respected:

1. Many forum cards can only be used in combination with the appropriate personality card.

Example: CLAUDIUS POMPEIUS can only be used with the Prefect.

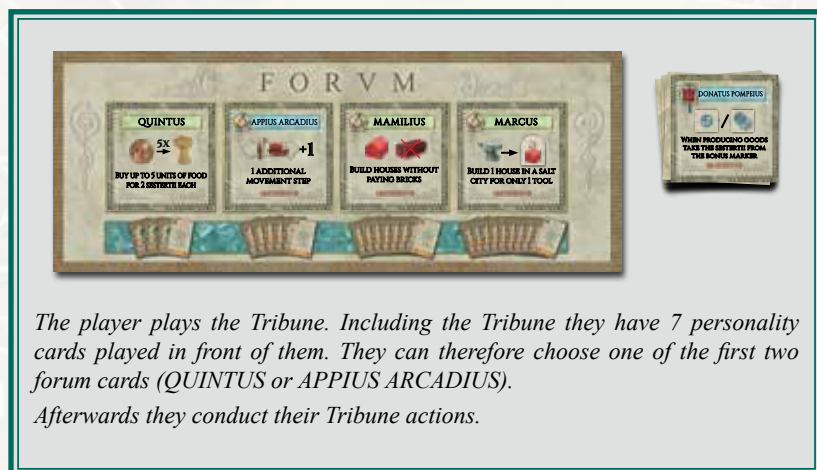

2. Patricians (blue) remain with the players, citizens (green) have to be discarded after use.
3. If you get goods by playing a forum card, you have to store these goods in your storehouse. After that you can immediately use the new goods.
4. The building action of the Architect cannot be interrupted by the play of a forum card. That means: "Moving - Forum card - Building" is allowed, but "Building - Forum card - Building" is forbidden.
5. Newly obtained forum cards may be used in the same move.

Expert rule for the forum cards:

To make the best out of the different forum cards and starting with a forum card that you do not particularly like is one of the many challenges in Concordia Salsa.

If you prefer a more balanced start, you can distribute the forum cards with the following auction variant:

Display "number of players + 1" blue forum cards. The starting player bids at least 0 victory points for one of the cards. All players can then in order bid higher or pass, until everyone has passed. The winner of the auction gets the forum card and spends the victory points that were bid by going backwards on the victory point track. Players who already own a forum card cannot participate in further auctions. The auctions continue until everybody has a forum card. (If the starting player is not present, the second player starts the bidding and so on.) The last player without a forum card takes one of the last two cards for 0 victory points and discards the other.

The player plays the Tribune. Including the Tribune they have 7 personality cards played in front of them. They can therefore choose one of the first two forum cards (QUINTUS or APPIUS ARCADIUS). Afterwards they conduct their Tribune actions.

Red plays the Architect. They already moved their colonists and want to build now:

In their storehouse red possesses 1 brick and 2 units of food. Furthermore they own the 3 pictured forum cards on the right.

First red exchanges with AUGUSTUS 1 brick and 1 food with 2 salt.

Then they play MAMILIUS and do no longer need any bricks in the following building action.

Finally red uses ANNAEUS ARCADIUS, so that they can build in the wine city, too.

Altogether red builds in the 3 pictured cities and pays 2 salt (as a wildcard for 1 cloth and 1 wine), 1 food and 15 sestertii.

The two citizens (AUGUSTUS und MAMILIUS) have to be discarded.

THE FORUM CARDS

You get 4 extra storage spaces and 1 brick immediately.

Note: In cities with several houses you nonetheless save only 1 sestertius.

Example: The player sells 1 cloth and 3 bricks for 16 sestertii and gets 4 sestertii extra (for 4 sold goods).

The player gets 1 sestertius if they produce in a cloth province, otherwise 2 sestertii.

Example: The player exchanges 1 brick with 1 salt.

The player moves their colonists. They have as many movement steps as they would normally get during an Architect action.

You do not have to pay bricks for any houses you build in this move.

Example: The player owns houses in 5 provinces. They get 10 sestertii.

The player gets 1 salt.

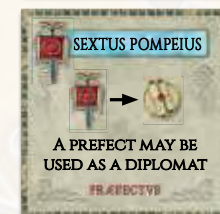

Note: Per move you can build just one house with the help of a foreign colonist.

Note: If there are 2 Consuls on sale, you can copy one and buy the other.

The player may trade 3 types of goods instead of 2.

The player chooses the prefect and copies a face-up personality card of another player.

Example: The player exchanges 1 brick and 1 tool with 2 salt.

The player gets 1 brick and 1 food.

The player builds 1 house in 1 salt city for just 1 tool. They save 1 wine and the sestertii.

Note: The player may place the colonist either in the start city or in a city with one of their houses.

Example: At least one cloth province has not produced yet. The player decides to take 1 cloth.

Example: A player with 2 colonists has 3 movement steps.

Note: It is allowed to buy just 1 brick (for free), but that counts as one of your two trade actions.

Example: The player produces 2 cloths. They get 1 cloth + 7 sestertii.

Example: The player buys a Consul displayed on the right for 1 cloth and 2 bricks.

Example: The player owns houses in 8 provinces. They get 2 tools.

Example: The player builds a house in a cloth city. There are already 2 other houses, therefore they save 15 sestertii.

The house is free, you do not need an adjacent colonist and you do not have to play the Architect.

Example: The player buys 4 food for 8 sestertii.

The player gets 5 victory points at the end of the game.
